A dead hand dangling
by the door—
Takes back your clues
from the second floor!

The hound of the Baskervilles
howls, in the night
give back the lantern
with the candle light!

Remember the portrait
by the stair?
Through a trap door,
you've fallen there!

Roses are red
and violets are damp—
You just won
a Tiffany lamp!
(3rd Floor)

Everything
is void and null—
You've just lost
the basement skull!

Oh! Oh! You squeaked
a hinge on the door—
Go back to the lantern
on the second floor!

Hocus Pocus!
Abracadabra!
You just won both the first floor candelabra!

You just displayed
a trace of fear—
Go back to the second floor
chandelier!

A door is opened
by a Ghostly hand—
It gives you the pipe
resting on the stand.
(2nd floor)

A friendly ghost,
through squeaking doors,
Gives you all the clues
from the first two floors!

If you think things are bad,
they could get badder—
You just lost
the basement ladder!

This house is scuttling
with mice and rats—
You've got to give back
all the cats!
(1st, 2nd & 3rd floor)—

Poison is poison
and cats are cats—
You've just won
the spooky bats!
(Basement and third floor)
